OWNERS

Abe and Irene Pollin

In their 44th season of ownership of the franchise, Abe and Irene Pollin hold the distinction of being the longest tenured owners in the National Basketball Association. Since becoming owners in 1964, the Pollins have watched the NBA become the standard by which all other professional sports leagues are measured, as it exploded in growth from a small, regional league to a worldwide presence on the business landscape.

In their distinguished careers, Abe and Irene Pollin have been at the center of every major issue in the NBA during their time at the helm of the Washington Bullets/Wizards. In 1978, they reached the pinnacle of the NBA when their Bullets, behind the play of Wes Unseld, Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge, defeated Seattle and brought a World Championship to Washington.

As the majority owners of Washington Sports & Entertainment Limited Partnership, Abe and Irene Pollin oversee the operations of the Washington Wizards, Washington/Baltimore TicketMaster, and in-house promoter Musicentre Productions, as well as the management of Verizon Center and the George Mason University Patriot Center.

Thirty-four years ago, the Pollins opened the Capital Centre in Landover, Maryland – the new home for their Baltimore Bullets – and applied for a National Hockey League expansion franchise. The Capital Centre opened on December 2, 1973, and it was what Verizon Center is today -- a state-of-the-art sports and entertainment facility that became the standard for new arenas throughout the world.

The Capital Centre, aptly named by Irene Pollin, was built in a record 15 months and boasted a host of unique features including electronic ticketing, one-of-a-kind luxury suite accommodations and the never-seen-before Telescreen. It was the premier arena in its time, as it hosted a wide range of events from sporting events to concerts, and even presidential galas.

But as time and the sports and entertainment industry changed, the Pollins realized that their teams were no longer playing in the "best" facility in their respective leagues. In 1964, when the Pollins and two partners purchased the Baltimore Bullets, they had dreams that someday the team would play in a brand-new facility in the Nation's Capital. Once again, they seized the opportunity to make their dreams a reality.

After the long years of planning and building Verizon Center, the Pollins watched as their dreams came true on December 2, 1997, when a sellout crowd filled Verizon Center to watch the Wizards host the arena's first event versus the Seattle Supersonics. Since that time, over 22.7 million people have spun the turnstiles at Verizon Center to be a part of over 1,940 concerts and sporting events, and Washington's Gallery Place neighborhood and the downtown area have sprung to life. The 2007-08 NBA campaign marks the 10th Anniversary of the opening of Verizon Center in downtown DC; a milestone which has been marked by a season's worth of special community events. Most recently, Verizon Center saw the first indoor, high-definition, light emitting diode (LED) display scoreboard installed, once again putting the building on the cutting edge of technology and ahead of the curve.

"I had two goals when I decided to build this building," said Abe Pollin. "The first was that if I was building in downtown Washington, the Nation's Capital, it had to be the best building of its kind in the country. The second was to be the catalyst that turned the city around."

In 1998, as the Wizards completed their first season at Verizon Center, the Pollins' WNBA franchise, the Washington Mystics, made history of their own. The Mystics made their Verizon Center debut on June 19, 1998 in front of 20,674 fans — the largest crowd ever to attend a women's professional basketball game in the United States. And while the Mystics' beginnings under the Pollins' guidance were historic in their own right, their purchase by Sheila Johnson and Lincoln Holdings was of similar significance. In May of 2005, the Pollins facilitated the sale of their Mystics to Sheila Johnson as the Mystics President and Managing Partner, and brought Johnson to Lincoln Holdings, a minority partner in Washington Sports and Entertainment. With Lincoln Holdings' stake in the NBA's Wizards and the NHL's Capitals, Johnson became the first African-American woman to have ownership interest in three professional sports franchises.

While the sports industry is full of astute business professionals, what distinguishes Abe and Irene Pollin from their peers is their commitment to social responsibility. They share a passionate need to give back to the community and have made helping people a way of life. Their philanthropic and humanitarian endeavors know no bias or boundaries, which is evident by the numerous public service and community organizations to which they selflessly devote enormous time and energy.

Abe Pollin serves as the Chairman of the Advisory Council, is Honorable Chairman of the Salvation Army's Leadership Committee for Centers of Hope and Co-Chair of the Community Capital Campaign for N Street Village in the District. He is also the co-sponsor of the "I Have a Dream Foundation", and he personally guaranteed a college education for 55 students. Recent philanthropic endeavors of the Pollins have included the re-launch of the Abe's Table program to feed the underserved in the DC community, and financial sponsorship of Gilbert Arenas' Gilbert Scores for Schools program, through which the Pollins donated $100 for every point that Arenas scored in Wizards road games during the 2006-07 season to a different Washington area school each game.

"I grew up in a house where both my parents were very much involved in helping others," said Pollin. "My philosophy is that those of us who are on the giving end rather than the receiving end are very lucky."

Not surprisingly, recognition of the Pollins' record and accomplishments are just as impressive as the deeds they acknowledge. The recent years have been landmark ones for Pollin, as he has received numerous awards and accolades recognizing his accomplishments in professional sports and contributions to community service.

Pollin was awarded the Duke Ziebert Capital Achievement Award for his efforts in revitalizing downtown Washington, D.C. He has also been the recipient of the Distinguished Civilian Service Award, presented by the US Army, the 1996 Robert F. Kennedy-Martin Luther King, Jr. Award, presented by Coalition to Stop Gun Violence, the 1996 United Cerebral Palsy Achievement Award and the 1997 Jewish Leadership Award. In 2006, Pollin was honored for his contributions to the world of sports and his community when the United States Sports Academy tabbed him for their Distinguished Service Award.

As if the years of experience with the Bullets/Wizards, Capital Centre and Verizon Center were not challenging enough, Irene Pollin is a noted health care professional with over 28 years of experience in the field. In 1976, she created the first Medical Crisis Counseling Center developed to treat patients and families coping with chronic illness. Since then she has developed Medical Crisis Counseling Centers at Washington Hospital Center as well as additional facilities in surrounding communities.

In addition, Irene Pollin has forged a dynamic reputation as a psychiatric social worker and lecturer in the department of psychiatry at Harvard University. As president and founder of the Linda and Kenneth Pollin Foundation, she serves on a number of national advisory boards and commissions in fields of both mental and women's health, and is the founder and chairperson of the Sister to Sister — Everyone Has a Heart Foundation, an organization whose aim is to increase women's awareness of heart disease and provide free cardiac screenings.

In addition to lecturing in the academic community, Mrs. Pollin has been a guest on national and local broadcast shows including The Today Show, Nightline with Ted Koppel, Good Day New York, National Public Radio and USA Today Sports Radio. She also has published numerous articles and is the author of two books, Medical Crisis Counseling — Short-Term Therapy for Long-Term Illness and Taking Charge — Overcoming the Challenges of Long-Term Illness.

She has served as a board member of numerous organizations such as the American Cancer Society, Smithsonian Institution, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, National Kidney Foundation, the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Society for Women's Health Research, National Cancer Institute, National Rehabilitation Hospital, the National Institute of Mental Health, the U.S. Committee for the Washington, D.C. United Nations Fund for Women, the National Institutes for Health Foundation and the Office of Women's Health at NIH. Outside of the health field, Mrs. Pollin has served on the board for the National Symphony Orchestra and the Washington Opera. In addition, she has given back to her alma mater, serving on the Board of American University for 11 years, the American University Executive Committee and the Development Committee at AU and was the guiding force behind the development of the new AU Library. In the Spring of 2007, Mrs. Pollin received an honorary doctorate degree from Howard University.

Recently, Abe and Irene Pollin together established the Pollin Prize for Pediatric Research, administered annually by New York Presbyterian Hospital. The first Pollin Prize was awarded in November 15, 2002 to four international scientists for their work in Oral Dehydration Therapy, hailed as the most important medical discovery of the 20th century.

Abe Pollin moved with his family to the Washington area from Philadelphia when he was eight. He graduated from The George Washington University in 1945 and went to work for his family's construction company for 12 years. Irene Pollin, a native of St. Louis, received a Bachelor's Degree from American University, and then earned a Master's Degree in Social Work from Catholic University. In 1957, the Pollins launched their own construction company and, as a local contractor, built several large apartment houses and office buildings, one of which featured the first-ever rooftop pool in Washington.

The Pollins are avid travelers and they enjoy spending time with their children and grandchildren. Robert, the elder of the Pollins' two sons, lives in Amherst, MA with his wife Sigrid, where they are both professors at the University of Massachusetts. Robert, an economics professor, and Sigrid, an architect, have two daughters, Emma and Hannah. The Pollins' younger son, James, is the Executive Vice President of the Sister to Sister — Everyone Has a Heart Foundation. Abe and Irene Pollin reside in Bethesda, Maryland.

PRESIDENT

Ernie Grunfeld

Widely regarded as one of the top executives in the National Basketball Association, Ernie Grunfeld is in his fifth season with the Washington Wizards. Grunfeld joined the organization on June 30, 2003, and in just his second year in Washington, with a roster that was largely assembled under his guidance, the Wizards won a playoff series for the first time in over two decades in 2004-05. After advancing to the playoffs again in 2005-06 and 2006-07, Grunfeld's Wizards reached an organizational goal of becoming perennial playoff contenders. Having advanced to the playoffs in three straight seasons for the first time in 19 years, Grunfeld and the Wizards now aim to take the next step towards becoming a perennial power in the Eastern Conference and in the NBA.

Grunfeld triggered Washington's ascent to the upper echelon of the Eastern Conference with the acquisition of a trio of talented performers in Gilbert Arenas, Antawn Jamison and Caron Butler, all of whom blossomed into All-Stars in Washington. As Arenas was signed as a restricted free agent out of Golden State in 2003, and Jamison and Butler were acquired, respectively, via trades with the Dallas Mavericks in 2004 and the Los Angeles Lakers in 2005, Grunfeld also bolstered the Wizards' foundation by adding toughness and experience to an established core.

With the free agent signing of Antonio Daniels in 2005, Darius Songaila in 2006, and the signing and recent re-signing of DeShawn Stevenson, Washington's versatile veteran rotation melds well with Grunfeld's draftees; Andray Blatche (49th overall in 2005), Oleksiy Pecherov (18th in 2006), Nick Young (16th in 2007) and Dominic McGuire (47th in 2007).

Grunfeld's long and prodigious list of accomplishments as one of the league's elite general managers now includes two trips to the NBA Finals, four Eastern Conference Finals appearances and 15 playoff berths, including 11 straight from 1991-2001 with the New York Knicks and Milwaukee Bucks. With 30 years of NBA experience as a player, broadcaster, coach and executive, Grunfeld's vision and leadership have been paramount to the Wizards' success.

In the process of building a contender in the Eastern Conference, Grunfeld's attention to detail resulted in the renovating and upgrading of the team's facilities at Verizon Center. The major overhaul included the interior and exterior of the team's locker room and the basketball operations and coaching offices.

"Everything he has done has been with the focus of making us a playoff contender for years to come," said Wizards Chairman Abe Pollin. "Some moves have shown immediate returns and others are made with an eye towards the future. That's the mark of a good manager."

Prior to joining the Wizards, Grunfeld spent the previous four seasons as General Manager of the Milwaukee Bucks, where the team's 14 playoff wins during his tenure exceeded its cumulative total in the 12 seasons prior to his arrival. During his tenure, the Bucks posted a record of 177-151 (.540) and qualified for the playoffs three times. Included in the Bucks run of playoff success was a trip to the 2001 Eastern Conference Finals, where they pushed Philadelphia to a deciding Game 7.

Grunfeld solidified his reputation as a top talent evaluator with a series of second round picks that helped build the Bucks' roster. Grunfeld's penchant for finding talent in the second round began when he selected Michael Redd with the 43rd overall pick in 2000, and has since watched Redd blossom into an All-Star performer. Grunfeld has also tabbed Jason Hart (2000), Ronald Murray (2002), and more recently Andray Blatche (2005), in the second round of the NBA Draft to stake his claim as a premier draft day executive.

During Grunfeld's reign as the Knicks' top personnel executive, New York advanced to the Conference Semifinals of the NBA Playoffs for nine consecutive seasons (1991-99). His tenure included five 50-plus win seasons, three Atlantic Division Championships and two trips to the NBA Finals. In eight full seasons of decision making for New York, Grunfeld's Knicks teams compiled a record of 397-227 (.636) in the regular season and a 61-44 mark in the playoffs.

Grunfeld was named General Manager of the New York Knicks on April 23, 1991 and was later promoted to President and General Manager on February 23, 1996. His tenure in New York was punctuated by Eastern Conference Championships in 1994 and '99, the latter of which marked the first time in NBA history that an eighth seed advanced to the Finals. Remarkably, after Patrick Ewing was felled by injury, the '99 Finals squad featured an entirely different starting five than the previous Eastern Conference Champion Knickerbockers just five years earlier.

With Grunfeld's vision, the mid-'90's Knicks completely rebuilt and reloaded to an elite level without missing a beat. Highlighted by trades for Latrell Sprewell and Marcus Camby, as well as the signing of free agent Kurt Thomas, Grunfeld's moves helped catapult the Knicks to the Finals in '99. Three years earlier, Grunfeld acquired both Larry Johnson and Allan Houston on the same day in '96, solidifying his reputation as an astute decision maker. Under Grunfeld's guidance, the Knicks played in front of a sold-out Madison Square Garden from 1993-99.

In his 18th season as a top personnel executive in the NBA, Grunfeld has enjoyed 16 seasons of at least .500 basketball, and the 2006-07 Wizards marked Grunfeld's 15th playoff team on three different franchises that have experienced the postseason on his watch.

Originally drafted by Milwaukee with the 11th overall selection in 1977, Grunfeld played in the NBA for nine seasons. After two seasons in Milwaukee, he played for the Kansas City Kings from 1979-82 before signing with the Knicks as a free agent in 1982. Grunfeld retired following the 1985-86 season with a career average of 7.4 points per game in 693 career games played.

Following his playing career, Grunfeld served as the Knicks radio analyst for the MSG Network from 1986-89. Prior to the 1989-90 season, he served as an assistant coach for the Knicks under Stu Jackson before his promotion to the front office.

Born in Romania, Grunfeld came to New York City in 1964 with his father, Alex and mother, Livia. He enjoyed a stellar collegiate career at the University of Tennessee, where he left as the school's all-time leading scorer with 2,249 points. He teamed with Bernard King at Tennessee to form the "Ernie and Bernie Show" and later played with King in New York. Grunfeld was a member of the 1976 Olympic Team that won gold in Montreal.

Upon his arrival in Washington DC, Grunfeld was quick to establish himself as an active member of the community in the nation's capital. His participation in the organization's community outreach programs, including Thanksgiving luncheons, Holiday gift deliveries, and charitable bowling tournaments helped set an example of excellence for the Wizards and the community.

In May of 2005, Grunfeld was named by USA Basketball to a panel of nine basketball executives that will advise the United States' men's senior national program on matters including coaches and players selection.

Grunfeld and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Rebecca Grunfeld Hamilton, a 2007 graduate of Georgetown Law School who is now a first-year associate at the law firm of Kaye Scholer in Washington, DC, and Danny, a former First-Team Academic All-American from Stanford University, who now plays professional basketball in Europe.

Tim Connelly
Assistant Director of Player Personnel

In his fourth season as Assistant Director of Player Personnel of the Washington Wizards, Tim Connelly is in his eighth year with the Wizards organization. Connelly's role includes head scouting, salary cap and database management, player evaluation responsibilities, as well as assisting the Wizards Vice President of Player Personnel with all front office duties.

Including a four-year stint as a scout for the Wizards, Connelly's travels have taken him across five continents to identify the top talent in the basketball world. Well-known both internationally and domestically in basketball circles, Connelly has enjoyed a rapid ascent in the Wizards organization.

The Baltimore product began working for the Wizards as an intern in the basketball operations department in 1996, and after his graduation from DC's Catholic University in 1999, Connelly was named to the Wizards scouting staff as Assistant Video Coordinator. In 2000, Connelly became a full-time scout for Washington, and later assumed the head scouting role.

Connelly's service to the game of basketball has spanned the globe in recent years. HEAD COACH

Eddie Jordan

The 2007-08 campaign marks Eddie Jordan's fifth season at the helm in Washington, and the Washington, DC product continues to make his homecoming a special one. Born and raised in Washington, Jordan returned to DC prior to the 2003-04 season, and in just his second season with the Wizards in 2004-05, Jordan guided the team to its first Playoff appearance in eight years and its first postseason series win since 1982. In the follow-up season in 2005-06, the Wizards finished the regular season at 42-40, as Jordan, the NBA Eastern Conference's longest tenured Head Coach, took the franchise to the playoffs once again. Then in 2006-07, in a season that saw Jordan and staff earn the right to lead the Eastern Conference All-Star team at All-Star Weekend in Las Vegas, Jordan became the franchise's first Head Coach since Gene Shue in the mid-80's to lead the Wizards to three consecutive postseason appearances.

Signed to an extension during the summer of 2006, Jordan's influence on his young and talented team is evident. Jordan saw Gilbert Arenas and Antawn Jamison selected to the All-Star team for the first time in their careers in 2005, guided Arenas to three consecutive All-NBA seasons in 2005, 2006 and 2007, and steered Caron Butler to his first career All-Star game in 2007. With one of the league's youngest nucleuses, Jordan and the Wizards enjoyed the franchise's best season since 1978-79 in 2004-05, established a new record for wins in a season at Verizon Center in that same season, earned the fifth seed in the Eastern Conference in consecutive years in 2004-05 and 2005-06, and in 2006-07, the Wizards held the best record in the Eastern Conference as late as February 1, sending Jordan and his assistants to the All-Star game.

After compiling a 25-57 record in his first season in Washington, Jordan guided the Wizards to a 20-game improvement in 2004-05. The 2004-05 season was highlighted by the Wizards' series win against the Chicago Bulls in the first round of the NBA playoffs; a series in which Jordan's Wizards rallied from a 0-2 deficit to take the series with four consecutive wins. Jordan's Wizards finished 45-37 in his second season, 42-40 in his third season, and most recently at 41-41 in 2006-07, despite being without Caron Butler (19 games missed), Antawn Jamison (12) and Gilbert Arenas (8) for significant portions of the season.

Jordan was introduced as Head Coach of the Washington Wizards on June 19, 2003 after serving as the lead assistant of the New Jersey Nets for the previous four seasons. With Jordan's tutelage and offensive system, the Nets won consecutive Atlantic Division and Eastern Conference Championships in 2002 and 2003.

Jordan joined the Nets coaching staff on March 17, 1999. Prior to his arrival in New Jersey, Jordan spent the 1997-98 campaign and the final 15 games of the 1996-97 season as head coach of the Sacramento Kings, where he compiled a 33-64 record. He was an assistant coach with the Kings for five seasons before being named head coach on March 20, 1997.

After retiring from the NBA in 1984, Jordan was a volunteer assistant at Rutgers University under his former college head coach, and former Wizards' assistant, Tom Young. Jordan followed Young to Old Dominion as a part-time assistant before landing an assistant coaching position at Boston College under Jim O'Brien in 1986, and at his alma mater in 1988.

Originally selected by the Cleveland Cavaliers in the second round of the 1977 NBA Draft (33rd overall), Jordan was acquired by New Jersey midway through his rookie year. As a New Jersey Net, Jordan led the league in total steals in 1978-79 and was second in total steals in 1979-80.

Jordan joined the Los Angeles Lakers during the 1980-81 campaign, where he subsequently played four seasons, and was a member of the 1982 NBA World Championship squad. He also played briefly with the Portland Trail Blazers before concluding his professional career after the 1983-84 season. In his seven-year career, Jordan averaged 8.1 points, 3.8 assists and 1.82 steals per game.

As a collegian, Jordan led Rutgers to the 1976 NCAA Final Four in his Junior year, and was named East Regional MVP. In his senior season, he was named honorable mention All-America, while setting Rutgers all-time career records in assists (585) and steals (220). Jordan graduated from Rutgers in 1977 with a degree in health and physical education.

Jordan was born in Washington, D.C. and is a 1973 graduate of Archbishop Carroll High School where he enjoyed a standout basketball and football career. Upon his return to DC, Jordan instituted a program called Coach Jordan's Neighborhood "8", through which community groups in the District's Ward 8 can attend a Wizards' home game courtesy of Jordan.

Eddie and his wife, Charrisse, have two children, a son, Jackson (9), and daughter, Skylar (7). Eddie also has three sons, Justin, a graduate of New York School of the Arts; Eddie II, who followed in his father's footsteps at Rutgers University, where he played football; and Paul, who resides in D.C. Charrisse Jordan was recently appointed as President of "Behind the Bench", a non-profit organization developed by the National Basketball Wives Association, which raises funds and awareness for charities that benefit women and children.

"Eddie was one of the smartest players that I have ever coached. He knew every single position on the court. He picked up everything very quickly and played the game as an extension of the Head Coach. He was one of the few players that I have ever coached that I knew, if he wanted to, could be a Head Coach."

2006-07 TEAM NOTES

PLAYOFFS VS. CLEVELAND, AGAIN: In a rematch of 2006's epic first round playoff series, the Wizards and Cleveland Cavaliers met in the first round of the 2007 NBA Playoffs. However, without the services of All-Stars Gilbert Arenas and Caron Butler for the duration of the series, Washington was eliminated in four games. Nevertheless, as the Eastern Conference's 7th seed in the 2007 NBA Playoffs, the Wizards made their third consecutive playoff appearance. Previously, Washington had not advanced to postseason play in three consecutive seasons since qualifying for five straight playoffs from 1983-88. Washington's appearance in the 2007 NBA Playoffs marked the franchise's 24th all-time playoff berth.

ERNIE AND EDDIE: Hired within weeks of each other in June of 2003 — Eddie on the 19th, Ernie on the 30th — Wizards President of Basketball Operations Ernie Grunfeld and Head Coach Eddie Jordan helped Wizards Chairman Abe Pollin usher in a new era of Washington basketball. Under their watch in DC, Washington has made three straight playoff trips (first time since 83-88), finished .500+ in three consecutive campaigns (first time since 72-79), and had three players — Gilbert Arenas, Antawn Jamison and Caron Butler — make their first career All-Star appearances. Additionally, before injuries put a speed bump in Washington's path, the 2006-07 Wizards enjoyed the best record in the Eastern Conference as late as February 1st; a distinction that earned Eddie Jordan and his staff the right to coach the Eastern Conference All-Stars in Las Vegas in February. Prior to the 2006-07 season, it had been since 1978-79 that Washington was the top overall seed in the Conference as late in the season as the month of February.

SOUTHEAST BEASTS: While the Wizards ultimately finished three games behind the Miami Heat in the Southeast Division, Washington made a serious run at dethroning Miami; the only team to ever win a Southeast Division crown. Entering games played on Tuesday, April 3rd, Washington topped the division, marking the latest point in the season that Washington has led the division since the conclusion of the 1978-79 campaign. After Caron Butler was lost for the remainder of the regular season on April 1st, and Gilbert Arenas joined his fellow All-Star teammate on the sidelines on April 4th, Washington's grasp of first place slipped away — but Washington held on for second place in the division and 7th overall in the Eastern Conference.

INJURY REPORT: Not unlike all NBA teams, Washington dealt with its share of injuries in 2006-07. Starting in Training Camp, the Wizards found out that Darius Songaila would be lost for the first three months of the season, and Songaila went on to miss the first 45 games. When Songaila finally returned at the beginning of February, the injury bug hit Antawn Jamison who was sidelined for 12 games, spanning the entire month of February, with a left knee sprain. Then Caron Butler missed three games at the end of February with lower back spasms, and six games in March with a left knee contusion, before going down for the remainder of the regular season with a right hand fracture on April 1. Already without the services of one All-Star in Butler, Washington was dealt another blow just three days after Butler was injured when Gilbert Arenas suffered a torn left lateral meniscus and underwent surgery. In all, 11 Wizards players missed a total of 153 games in 2006-07.

SELLING OUT: After selling-out 14 games in 2005-06, the Verizon Center faithful came back even stronger in '06-07. In a season that saw the Wizards win 26 of their 41 regular season home games, Washington played in front of a sold-out Verizon Center crowd of 20,173 in 23 games. In all, 753,283 fans crossed through the turnstiles, for an average of 18,373 fans per game — marking a 7.1 percent increase over the previous season; the 4th largest increase in the NBA.

WHAT GOES ON IN VEGAS, INVOLVES THE WIZARDS: On Feb.18, 2007 in Las Vegas, the NBA staged its annual All-Star showcase...a showcase that featured the Washington Wizards. Led by Eddie Jordan and his staff, the Eastern Conference All-Stars included Washington's own Gilbert Arenas and Caron Butler. Arenas, who made his third straight All-Star appearance, became Washington's sixth player since 1976 to start in the All-Star game — and Butler, who came to Washington in a trade for Kwame Brown in the summer of 2005, made his first career All-Star appearance. Meanwhile, as Jordan walked the sidelines in Vegas, he became Washington's fourth Head Coach to ever lead an All-Star unit...following Gene Shue in 1969, K.C. Jones in 1975 and Dick Motta in 1979.

MVP DOWN: Though his season was ultimately derailed by injury, Gilbert Arenas packed a season's worth of highlights into 73 games, and made his claim for MVP worthiness. Arenas scored 30+ points in a game 35 times, 40+ points nine times, and 50+ points on three occasions...He established a new Washington single game franchise scoring record when he poured in 60 points at Los Angeles on Dec.17, and set a new NBA record by scoring 16 points in a single overtime session in the Wizards' overtime win against the Lakers...He put his name in the record books in two gyms by scoring a US Airways Center record 54 points in Phoenix on December 22 and a Verizon Center record-tying 51 points versus Utah on January 15...He won three Eastern Conference Player of the Week awards, and took home Eastern Conference Player of the Month honors in December...And he joined Walt Bellamy as the only players in Washington franchise history to have scored 2,000+ points in three consecutive seasons.

CARON'S CAREER YEAR: Caron Butler represented the Wizards in his first career All-Star appearance in 2007, providing the highlight for a sensational first half of the season for the fifth year pro. Butler averaged 20.4 points, 7.7 rebounds, 3.9 assists and 2.2 steals per game before the All-Star break to pave his way to Vegas. Butler also gave the Wizards a win on Jan. 17 vs. New York with a game-winning dunk with 2.2 seconds to play, but suffered a regular season-ending hand injury at Milwaukee on April 1. Butler finished the regular season with career-high marks in points per game (19.1), rebounds per game (7.4), assists per game (3.7), steals per game (2.1), minutes per game (39.3), field goal percentage (.463) and double-doubles (21) — and he earned his first career Player of the Week honor when he was the Eastern Conference's best player from Jan. 15 - 21.

ANTAWN WAS BETTER THAN EVER: In his ninth season out of North Carolina, Antawn Jamison improved on his already stellar career marks...

STEVENSON'S STELLAR SEASON: In his seventh professional season — but his first in DC — DeShawn Stevenson enjoyed his finest professional season. Stevenson averaged career-high marks in field goal % (.461), 3pt. field goal % (.404) and assists per game (2.7), and was the only Wizard to have appeared in and started every game, stretching his consecutive games started streak to 168 straight games. Having come to Washington during the off-season with just 53 total three-pointers made in his first six NBA seasons. Stevenson's 74 three balls in 2006-07 alone more than doubled his previous tally — and in the late season absence of Gilbert Arenas and Caron Butler, Stevenson filled in as one of Washington's top offensive options. In 11 games in April, Stevenson averaged 13.6 points and 3.7 assists per game to help Washington secure the East's 7th seed.

SONGAILA FINISHED STRONG: Having missed the first 45 games of the season following surgery to repair a herniated disc, Darius Songaila joined the Wizards rotation in February looking to find his stride against competition that was already in midseason form. Songaila proved to be up to the task.

AD'S VETERAN LEADERSHIP: In his second season with the Wizards, Antonio Daniels' value was never more apparent than at the end of the 2006-07 season. In his typical steady fashion, Daniels' stepped in as starting point guard in the absence of Gilbert Arenas and registered career-best numbers. In eight games started at point guard in April, Daniels averaged 12.1 points and 9.4 assists per game — including his first three double-doubles in a Wizards uniform. In his first start of the season on April 4th, Daniels set the stage for the rest of the season with a career-night...18 points and a career-high 17 assists with just one turnover. Not surprisingly, Daniels led the NBA in 2006-07 with a 4.2 to 1 assist to turnover ratio.

BRENDAN AND ETAN: Brendan Haywood and Etan Thomas formed a two-headed center option for Washington in 2006-07. Haywood started 49 games for the Wizards at center, while Etan Thomas started 32 contests. Between Thomas and Haywood, the two longest tenured Wizards, they averaged 12.7 points, 12.0 rebounds and 2.5 blocks in 41.8 minutes per game — and combined for 14 double-doubles; with an even 7-7 split between them.

BLATCHE MADE STRIDES: In his second season in the NBA, Wizards forward Andray Blatche showed flashes of his infinite potential. Appearing in 56 games, including 13 starts, Blatche scored in double figures six times and had three games with 10+ rebounds. He led or tied for the team lead in rebounding in five games, and established new single game career-highs in almost every offensive category, including assists (4 at SEA, 3/21), minutes (31:56 at MIN, 2/25), rebounds (12, twice), blocks (4 at PHI, 2/14) and points (14 vs. SEA, 2/5). He also recorded his first career double-double with 11 points and 10 rebounds at Philadelphia on Feb. 14.

"Right now Gilbert is unstoppable. There's nobody in the league who can stop him. Caron Butler is the heart and soul of the team because he is so tough, mentally and physically. And Antawn is probably the hardest cover on the team because he's not a traditional power forward."

WIZARDS RETIRED NUMBERS

41 WES UNSELD

As a player, Wes Unseld seemed to have been chiseled from a block of granite, with a stoic demeanor and an iron resolve to win. A 6-7 bull of a center, he forged his reputation on relentless rebounding, bone-jarring picks, and laser-beam outlet passes. He did all the unspectacular things that led to glamorous victories. He was the league's MVP and Rookie of the Year in 1968-69 and a five-time NBA All-Star who captained the Baltimore and Washington Bullets to four NBA Finals appearances in the 1970s and to a championship in 1977-78. Unseld was intelligent on and off the court, and over the course of his career he came to personify the virtues of hard work, dedication, and courage. After retiring in 1980 he moved into a front office position with the Bullets, then coached the team for seven seasons in the late 1980s and early 1990s before becoming the team's General Manager before taking a leave of absence in May 2003. During his 13-year NBA career, all with the Bullets, Unseld piled up many accomplishments. He ranked seventh on the league's all-time rebounding list and was one of a handful of players to have tallied at least 10,000 points and 10,000 rebounds for a career. He played 984 games for the Bullets, the most of any player in franchise history. His TOTal of 13,769 boards (14.0 rpg) currently tops the franchise career list, and his 3,822 assists also is a Bullets record. After a standout career at Louisville, Unseld was the second overall selection in the 1968 NBA Draft by the Bullets following the selection of future teammate Elvin Hayes by the Rockets. The Bullets had never had a winning season up to that point of Unseld's arrival. With Unseld the team ran off 10 winning campaigns and made 12 consecutive playoff appearances. Unseld played each of his 13 seasons with the Bullets and was elected to the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1988. In 1996, he was named to the NBA 50th Anniversary All-Time Team.

11 ELVIN HAYES

One of the most talented power forwards ever to play the game, Elvin Hayes used his trademark turnaround jumper and aggressive defense to win a secure place in the NBA record books. Fifth on the all-time list in games (1,303) and third in minutes played (50,000), he missed only nine contests in his 16 years in the league, a tribute to his durability and conditioning. An All-Star for each of his first 12 seasons, he scored more points (27,313) than any other player in NBA history except for Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Karl Malone, Michael Jordan, Wilt Chamberlain and Moses Malone. He also ranks fourth on the league's all-time rebounding list with 16,279 boards. Hayes is the franchise leader in points scored with 15,551 and averaged 21.3 points and 12.7 rebounds in his nine seasons with the Bullets that included a world championship in 1978. Hayes attended the University of Houston where he had a standout career highlighted by outscoring Lew Alcindor 39-15 in leading Houston to snap UCLA's 47-game winning streak. Hayes was the first overall pick by the San Diego Rockets in the 1968 NBA Draft. Following four seasons with the Rockets, Hayes was acquired by the Baltimore Bullets in exchange for Jack Marin and future considerations on April 12, 1972. With the Bullets, Hayes moved to the power forward position and teamed with Wes Unseld to form one of the most formidable frontcourts in NBA history. Hayes led Washington to a franchise record 60 wins during the 1974-75 season while being named First Team All-NBA. During Washington's championship run in 1978, Hayes averaged a team-high 21.2 points per game. After a standout career in Washington, Hayes finished his 16-year career with the Houston Rockets. Hayes was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in 1990 and his #11 jersey is one of only three numbers retired by the Washington Wizards.

25 GUS JOHNSON

Gus Johnson, one of only three players in franchise history to have his jersey retired, was one of 21 finalists named by the North American Screening Committee for election into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame's Class of 2003. Johnson, a native of Akron, Ohio was a devastating force at the power forward position. Johnson's ability to score, pass, and rebound made the Baltimore Bullets a perennial title contender from the mid 1960s to the early 1970's. Johnson, who entered the league following one year at the University of Idaho in 1963, spent nine of his 11 pro seasons with the Bullets. Nicknamed "Honeycomb" for his sweet play, Johnson was a four-time All-NBA Second Team selection (1965, '66, '70, '71), a two-time All-Defensive First Team selection (1970, '71), and was a member of the 1964 NBA All-Rookie team. With Johnson on the roster, the Bullets reached the playoffs six times and advanced to the NBA finals in 1970-71 (4-0 loss to Milwaukee). Statistically, Johnson averaged a double-double (17.1 ppg and 12.7 rpg) in 581 career NBA games. The Washington Bullets retired his jersey number 25 in 1986. On April 29, 1987, Johnson passed away after being diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor.

1977-78 CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

Led by Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes, the Washington Bullets captured the franchise's only world championship during the 1977-78 season under new head coach Dick Motta. The Bullets had established themselves as one of the most formidable teams in the 1970's and made two NBA Finals appearances only to lose to Milwaukee in 1971 and to Golden State in 1975, after a season in which the team posted a franchise record 60 victories. Washington finished the 1977-78 season with a 44-38 record and defeated Atlanta and San Antonio in the Eastern Conference Playoffs before upsetting Philadelphia 4-2 for a spot in the NBA Finals versus the Seattle SuperSonics. Seattle erased a 19-point lead at home in Game 1 and took a 1-0 series lead with a 106-102 victory. The series then shifted to the Capital Centre for Game 2 where Bobby Dandridge scored 34 points and Hayes added 25 points as Washington even the series with a 106-98 win. Seattle held off a late Washington rally for a 93-92 win at the Capital Centre in Game 3 as the series shifted to the Kingdome for Game 4. In need of a win, Washington trailed by 15 points late in third quarter but rallied behind Dandridge and Unseld to force overtime where Charles Johnson nailed three field goals as Washington evened the series with a 120-116 overtime win. The series then shifted to the Seattle Coliseum for Game 5, and in their home arena, the Sonics posted a 98-94 win to take a 3-2 series lead. Facing elimination, Washington exploded for 70 points in the second half of Game 6 and increased a 12-point first half lead into a 117-82 victory. The series then returned to Seattle for the seventh and deciding game where Washington played strong defense in forcing the Sonics backcourt of Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson into 4-26 shooting in building an 11-point fourth quarter lead. Seattle fought back in the closing minutes and cut the lead to four with a minute and a half to play. Mitch Kupchak then converted a big three point play but Seattle rallied to cut the lead to 101-99 on a Paul Silas tip-in. Seattle then fouled Unseld, who hit both of his free throws as Washington held on for a 105-99 victory and the franchise's first world championship. The title was the first for the City of Washington, D.C. since the Redskins won the NFL title in 1942. During the playoff run and finals, Motta reminded the media and fans that each series wasn't over until "the fat lady sings," a phrase that is widely associated with 1978 NBA Champion Washington Bullets.

NBA FACT

KC Jones (above, center) coached Phil Chenier, Wes Unseld and the Bullets from 1973-1976. In 1975, Jones and Golden State's Al Attles made history when they led their respective teams to the NBA Finals, and became the first two African-American head coaches in either the NBA, NFL, MLB or NHL to meet in a championship game or series.

REACH ONE, TEACH ONE

READ TO ACHIEVE

The NBA's year-round, league-wide initiative, Read to Achieve, promotes the values of reading and online literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with children. Throughout the year, the Wizards host reading timeouts at local schools, libraries or at Verizon Center to help promote the importance of literacy. Wizards' players take time-out to read to area youth to help engage their imagination and foster a life-long love of reading and learning.

EVERYBODY WINS

Once a week, Wizards' staff members meet with students at Walker-Jones Elementary School to share conversation and good books. Everybody Wins is a mentoring program devoted to promoting children's literacy and a love of learning through shared reading and experiences with adults. This program is conducted in over 30 public elementary schools and impacts more than 5,000 children in at-risk communities in the Washington-Metropolitan area.

NATIONAL POETRY MONTH CONTEST

Wizards center Etan Thomas, with the help of Southwest Airlines, encourages local students to explore their writing skills and contribute to National Poetry Month through a poetry contest. Last spring, seventh through twelve grade students were asked to write an original poem focused on the theme, "In My Opinion..." Three winners out of ten finalists were selected from over 500 poems received. The three winners each received two round-trip tickets on Southwest Airlines, and along with the other finalists, they had the opportunity to attend a Wizards home game and read their poem aloud with Etan at a post-game poetry reading.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH ART CONTEST

In celebration of Black History Month, the Wizards, with Southwest Airlines and Kellogg's, gave students the opportunity to help celebrate the history, accomplishments and impact of African-Americans through a Black History Month Art Contest, "From the Minds of Greatness." Ninth through twelfth grade students created an original piece of artwork that was either inspired by or incorporated a quote from one of their favorite African American pioneers or leaders. Students displayed their artistic talents by creating an inspiring painting, drawing, collage or photograph that highlighted the history of African-Americans. Three outstanding pieces of artwork were featured at half-time during a Wizards home game, and each student received two round-trip tickets on Southwest Airlines.

10TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The Verizon Center is celebrating its 10 Year Anniversary this year, and as part of the celebration, the Wizards are adopting three schools, Anacostia, Spingarn and Ballou. Employee volunteers as well as Wizards Coaches and Players will participate in a Service Day at each of these schools to help renovate them. At the first service day held in September at Spingarn, the Wizards employees painted the gymnasium and did some landscaping at the school. The Wizards look forward to participating in Service Day at Anacostia and Ballou later in the season.

PROJECT BLACKTOP

The Wizards have provided 21 newly refurbished basketball court sites in the Washington-Metropolitan area since 1992. This program provides area youth a clean and safe place to play. With the help of Coca-Cola/Sprite, the Wizards complete two sites a year, repaving and relining the courts and hosting a dedication ceremony and skills clinic at the site.

A SALUTE TO OUR HEROES

In partnership with Northrop Grumman, the Washington Wizards worked with the USO of Metropolitan Washington and provided free tickets for every home game for soldiers recovering from injuries at the Walter Reed Medical Center and the Bethesda Naval Center. Each night soldiers were recognized during the game and were visited by former Wizards players and the Wizards Dance Team.

WIZARDS TURKEY GIVEAWAY

The Wizards have partnered with Heaven's Grocery Store for the past 10 years to host an annual turkey basket giveaway each November. Four hundred baskets are filled with turkeys and items to compliment a Thanksgiving Day meal, such as canned vegetables, bread, stuffing and desserts. Baskets are handed out to D.C. area families in need. Each season, Wizards players volunteer to sponsor this event and help to pass out each basket.

ABE'S TABLE

The Wizards host an annual Abe's Table holiday event each November. Wizards' players, coaches and staff serve a hot Thanksgiving luncheon to over 100 senior citizens from the District.

POLLIN AWARD

The Wizards team up with Verizon to honor the D.C. area's top volunteers with the Pollin Award. Local schools, community organizations and companies have the opportunity to nominate their top volunteers who show exceptional dedication to their community. Winners are chosen based on their volunteer activities and how they impact their community. Winners receive two lower level tickets to a designated Wizards game and are presented the Pollin Award during halftime.

THE WIZARDS 12 DAYS OF HOLIDAY CHEER

To celebrate with their community, the Wizards will designate 12 days of holiday giving throughout the month of December. The Wizards December ritual of Family to Family, where needy families are treated to a visit by Wizards bearing gifts, will be just one part of the 12 Days of Holiday Cheer. In addition, a number of local organizations will be surprised with Wizards tickets, bikes, movies, meals and much more.

CAREFIRST COMMUNITY THREES

For each Wizards' three-pointer, CareFirst BlueCross BlueShield pledged $100 to the Unity Health Care, a network of medical sites serving the District's homeless and uninsured, as part of the insurer's "Community Threes" program. This past season the Wizards scored $50,000 for Carefirst Community Threes.

WIZARDS CARE

GILBERT'S CHRISTMAS DREAM
Gilbert's Christmas Dream for kids allows Gilbert Arenas the opportunity to give back to kids who are less fortunate and who may not otherwise have a happy holiday. In the past, Gilbert has hosted over 300 children at a Christmas Eve dinner, an afternoon at the movies and the chance to attend a Wizards home game. Following each activity, Gilbert plays Santa and meets with each child one-on-one to provide them with their own special holiday gift.

GILBERT SCORES FOR SCHOOLS!
Gilbert Arenas continues to make a difference in our community, and for the second season, he has pledged to score dollars for schools. For every Wizards home game, Gilbert will designate one school to be the recipient of a $100 per point cash donation. Forty-one schools will be selected to participate in this program through a lottery drawing.

For the second season, Mr. Pollin has done his part in supporting the Gilbert Scores for Schools program by matching the $100 per point cash donation scored by Gilbert Arenas at all Wizards away games to benefit additional schools.

CARON'S 3DS TO SUCCEED
New this season -- Caron Butler will share his 3Ds – Dedication, Determination and Discipline to Succeed to motivate and recognize local youth. Each month, Caron and the Wizards will recognize and reward local 11-18 year-olds who demonstrate through a personal essay, poem, song/rap, artwork, video...etc. how they used one of the 3Ds to overcome adversity, build character or power achievement and to succeed on their own.

ANTONIO'S ENTOURAGE
For the third season, Antonio Daniels continues his efforts in community outreach. Antonio's ultimate mission is to provide tickets for members of the community who might not otherwise have the opportunity to attend a Wizards home game. Special guests receive complimentary tickets to a Wizards home game, as well as sit courtside during a pre-game shoot around, at which time the group's photo is taken.

GET 'N THE GAME

COLLECT A CAN FROM A FAN
The Wizards host an annual canned food drive at a Wizards home game in November. Fans are encouraged to donate non-perishable food items in exchange for a ticket to a future Wizards game. All donations benefit a private, non-profit organization that provides vulnerable residents of Washington, DC with comprehensive services including food, clothing, medical care, legal and social services in an atmosphere of dignity, respect and peace.

WIZARDS TOYLAND DRIVE
In December, the Wizards host a Wizards Toyland Drive at Verizon Center. Fans who donate a new, unwrapped toy the night of the game receive a coupon to a future Wizards game. All toys are dispersed to underprivileged children in the Washington-Metropolitan area.

CARON'S COATS
In January, Wizards' forward Caron Butler and Chevy Chase Bank host a warm coats drive at a Wizards home game at Verizon Center. Fans are encouraged to donate new or gently-used coats. Each fan who donates an item receives a coupon for a future Wizards game. Coats are given to Washington-Metropolitan area shelters and groups homes through the Salvation Army.

COMMUNITY TIX PROGRAM
As part of Mr. Pollin's commitment to the fans, the Wizards provide complimentary game tickets to 501C-3 charitable organizations in the Washington-Metropolitan area each year. Interested groups are encouraged to send a letter of request on their company letterhead to the Wizards Community Relations Department. The Community Relations Department contacts groups directly when tickets become available.

AUCTION/DONATION PROGRAM
Because of the overwhelming number of requests for donations received each season, Washington Sports and Entertainment created the Community Auction/Donation program. Organizations are asked to send a letter of request to the Wizards Community Relations Department on their organization letterhead. Organizations then receive a donation form for tickets to a specified Wizards game. These tickets can be used as raffle items, door prizes, or silent auction items. The Community Relations Department makes autographed Wizards balls available for a donation of $100. This fee is donated to Washington Sports and Entertainment charities.

WE CAN-TOGETHER
Washington Wizards Owner Irene Pollin has launched a new health initiative to help combat childhood obesity. "We Can – Together" (Ways to Enhance Children's Activity & Nutrition) is a program developed by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute and has been implemented in several District recreational centers to encourage families to make lifestyle changes to help prevent obesity. Backed by the Irene Pollin-founded Sister-to-Sister: Everyone Has a Heart Foundation, "We Can-Together" is a grassroots educational campaign and action plan that will encourage primary care givers, and families as a whole, to "work smart" in making lifestyle changes that include diet and exercise to prevent childhood obesity and heart disease.
